American (Whig) Review,	American Almanac,

Each of these volumes—some fifteen hundred in number—has been carefully indexed by an examination of each article, and reference has been made, under the subject of which the article treats. The whole is arranged alphabetically, so that by turning to any subject, the periodical, the volume, and the page where it has been discussed, can be immediately ascertained.

An important feature of the work has been to give, with the reference to an article, the name of the writer. This was an undertaking attended with no little difficulty; yet the work will contain the names of the authors of many thousand articles that were contributed anonymously to the leading Reviews and Magazines, and in several series—one of which is the North American Review—the writer's name of every article will be given.

The Index is brought down to January, 1852; and is an indispensable book of reference to every student and literary man. Complete in 1 vol., 8vo., of about 600 pages. $6.

Orders for the above work should be sent in at once to the publisher,

THE LIBRARIAN'S MANUAL.

This valuable work, now in preparation, will be published by

CHARLES B. NORTON,

and will comprise

LIBRARY ECONOMY;

OR,

A New and Complete Manual for the Organization, Arrangement, Preservation, and Administration of Libraries.

BY R. A. GUILD, A.M.,

LIBRARIAN OF BROWN UNIVERSITY.

The chief object of this work will be, to meet the wants of those who find themselves called upon to discharge the duties of a Librarian, or to superintend the management of a library, without having enjoyed the advantage of a special course of study and preparation, which the successful performance of such duties demands. It will contain, so far as is possible, all the details pertaining to books, libraries, and librarians, embracing the origin and progress of Printing and the mechanism of the Art; a brief history of the libraries of the ancients, and statistics of the more important modern libraries; a treatise upon rare and remarkable books; principles which should govern the selection of books, choice of editions, &c.; principles and study of bibliography, with lists of bibliographical works; plans for the division and classification of books; rules and directions for cataloguing; details pertaining to the organization and management of libraries; remarks upon the duties and qualifications of a librarian, &c., &c. In addition to the above, it will also include Dr. EBERT's celebrated work upon the Culture of a Librarian (Die Bildung des Bibliothekars), now being translated from the German by WM. E. JILLSON, A.M., Instructor of Modern Languages in Brown University. Mr. JILLSON having devoted himself to bibliographical pursuits, during his three years' residence abroad, is peculiarly well fitted to present to the public, in an English dress, this popular and excellent treatise.

The whole work will be intended to meet the present demand for a Librarian's Manual, a demand which has long been felt by all those who have in any way been connected with public or private libraries, or engaged in the collection of books. Prepared by one who, from his experience and position, is in every way well qualified for such an undertaking, it can hardly fail to be a valuable and useful guide. It will form an octavo volume of about 500 pages, handsomely Illustrated, with Views of the best Libraries in this country and Europe, and no expense on the part of the publisher will be spared, to render it worthy of the patronage of a liberal and approving public.

IMPORTANT TO

Clergymen, Theological Students, Sabbath School Teachers, and all Readers of the Bible.

CHARLES B. NORTON

PUBLISHES

THE ANNOTATED PARAGRAPH BIBLE,

ORIGINALLY PUBLISHED BY THE

LONDON RELIGIOUS TRACT SOCIETY.

The distinguishing features of the "ANNOTATED PARAGRAPH BIBLE," are as follows:

1. The text of the authorized version of King James is arranged according to the changes in the subject, or pauses in the narrative, into paragraphs, to which appropriate headings are given, the chapters and verses being marked in the margin for facility of reference.

2. The poetical parts are printed in parallelisms, after the natural order of the original, by which the meaning is often more readily ascertained, and the spirit and beauty of Divine poetry more fully exhibited.

3. The marginal readings, and translations of Hebrew proper names, which were appended by the English translators to their work, and which often convey an improved or illustrative meaning, or throw light upon obscure passages, are in such cases incorporated within brackets in the text, so as to meet the eye in the most convenient form.

4. The whole work is illustrated by brief EXPLANATORY NOTES, the chief objects of which are, to give improved renderings in cases where our present translation appears incorrect, or faulty; to bring out the true meaning and force of the original; to illustrate the language of the sacred writers, by references to the manners, customs, geography, and history of the countries, and of the times, in which the events of the Bible occurred; to show the harmony and mutual connection subsisting between the different parts of the inspired volume, and the progressive development of Divine truth: and, in every practicable way, to promote the right understanding of the Word of God.

5. Appended to the respective books is an INTRODUCTORY PREFACE, designed to embrace a short Analysis, showing the design of the writers, the nature of the contents, their peculiar character, and whatsoever else is previously necessary to their being read with understanding and profit.

6. The work is accompanied with an entirely new selection of REFERENCES to parallel and illustrative passages, sufficiently complete and not inconveniently copious, shedding often satisfactory light upon difficult passages, exhibiting remarkable coincidences, and making the Scriptures in truth their own interpreter.

7. The work is accompanied, also, by a rich COLLECTION of maps, plans, tables, and illustrative engravings.

The great object is, to give, in a SMALL COMPASS and in a condensed form, the substance of what the learning and piety of successive ages have contributed to the elucidation of the Word of God;—and to bring within the reach of the MASSES of MANKIND the readiest means of understanding the plain, simple, and obvious import of the REVEALED WILL of the Almighty.

The publisher has received the cordial assurance of the clergy of various denominations. that no effort on their part shall be spared to have the above valuable work thoroughly circulated, believing as they do that it must be of great value to the reading public.

The work will be published in two handsome 8vo. volumes, 750 pages each. Price, in cloth, $3 per vol.; or in half calf, $4 per vol. Vol. I. now ready.

* * * Clergymen remitting the above amount can have the Bible forwarded to them free of expense.
